THE WORRIED WOMEN.

They say men must work and women must weep; but alas, in this too busy world women often have to work and weep at the same time. Their holidays are too few and their work heavy and monotonous. It makes them nervous and irritable. The depressed and worried woman loses her appetite and grows thin and feeble. Once in a while she has spells of palpitation and has to lie up for a day or two. If some disease like influenza or malarial fever happens to prevail she is almost certain to have an attack of it, and that often paves the way for chronic troubles of the throat, lungs and other organs; and there is no saying what the end may be. Let the tired and overladen woman rest as much as possible; and, above all, place at her command a bottle of a true and sure remedy for the ills and maladies of women. It is palatable as honey and contains all the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. Search the world over and you will find nothing to equal it. Taken before meals it improves the nutritive value of ordinary foods by making them easier to assimilate, and has carried home and good cheer into thousands of darkened homes. It is effective from the first dose, and probably one bottle is all you may need. It is absolutely reliable and effective in Blood Impurities, Nervous Dyspepsia, Wasting Conditions, Melancholy, Chlorosis, Impaired Nutrition, Scrofula, Low Vitality, and all troubles of the Throat and Lungs. Dr. E. J. Boyes says: "I have found it a preparation of great merit. In a recent case a patient gained nearly twenty pounds in two months' treatment, in which it was the principal remedial agent." It carries the guarantee of reliability and cannot fail to disappoint you. Why accept a substitute? Sold by all chemists.

WAMPOL'S PREPARATION

MEDIUMS OF INSTRUCTION IN CHINA.

A REVIEW.

Two contributed articles in this issue of The Telegraph bear upon one of the fundamental problems of all higher education in the Chinese empire. What should be the medium of instruction in higher education? We regret that pressure of duties has prevented so competent an authority as Dr. Bergen from discussing his views on this question more fully, for the need of the present is a clear and full proof, if such be attainable, either that higher education should be given wholly through the Chinese language, or that it should be given wholly through one of the western languages, or that there is room and need for schools following each of these plans in the educating of the present generation of young Chinese. Most discussion of this question that we have had the fortune to see is weighty, or the opposite, only by reason of the person presenting the arguments, for clear demonstration on either side in the controversy is not forthcoming. No doubt the well-instructed have reasons for the faith that is in them, or the doubt, but while these scholars differ the general body of educators must form their conclusions from facts clearly presented, rather than to rely upon mere opinion. We should like very much to see the clearest possible rendering from English into Chinese of a few pages each of moderately abstruse scientific and philosophic and profound moral and religious thought, accompanied by a criticism of the adequacy and accuracy of the rendering, written by two or more competent persons. This would be more to fix the present position of the Chinese language than much decision. But we would not be misunderstood. We shall consider fully the outline presented by Dr. Bergen, which we find very suggestive. Our criticism applies not specifically to Dr. Bergen, but to all discussion of this question that has fallen under our notice, and we regret all the more the necessity that compelled Dr. Bergen to shorten his argument, from the fact that we should naturally have turned to him as among those capable of solving this problem.

The article from the pen of Dr. Woods takes the form of an inquiry into the general question, What sort of language is necessary for higher instruction? but is followed by a criticism, in the light of these general considerations, of the Chinese language, and some practical reflections as to the proper attitude of educators toward the two languages, Chinese and English. We shall summarize this article as a basis for further consideration, and we invite full discussion of this question in our journal.

Dr. Woods' introduction, contrasting the wealth of western thought with the poverty of the thought of China, suggests that the a priori argument is certainly with those who insist upon the fitness of the Chinese language, as it now stands, for the imparting of higher education. How can we forward, not into a language heretofore narrowly limited in content, the immense riches of the modern world? To say the language will grow is to leave the point under discussion. We do not ask: Will the language grow? No one doubts that it will grow. English has grown. But through how many centuries of slowly or rapidly expanding thought has English developed to its present wealth of vocabulary and power of expression and discrimination. Can we, with the magic wand of our enthusiasm and good will, immediately expand the language of the Chinese race to two, three, four, or many times its present capacity? If the reply is in the affirmative, no such expansion, we say, that evidence be furnished, for a priori considerations force us to fear that it does stand in need. Consider, in the light of the thoughtful inquiry of Dr. Woods, how much is demanded of a language that would be fit for modern higher education.

There are four conditions that a language should fulfill in order to be perfectly fit for use in the acquisition of knowledge. 1. It must be copious in vocabulary. 2. Its syntax must make possible the complexity of sentence structure necessary to clear and exact exposition of complex facts. 3. The written and spoken forms must be identical. 4. It must be easy of acquisition. This last seems self-evident. The immense content of modern thought demands an immense vocabulary. The abstruseness of science and philosophy call for the power to construct long and involved sentences that shall be aids to the right understanding of complex facts or theories, not hindrances to such understanding. If there are two languages, the written and the spoken, then the universal elementary education demanded by modern society, and such universal instruction as comes through newspapers, magazines, and popular treatises and literature, are practically impossible. The masses will remain ignorant. Lastly, the demand for ease of acquisition (requiring, of course, a single language) means simply that time is more precious than gold, more earnestly to be saved than fine gold.

But there is one further consideration, as to the demands made upon the vocabulary of a language in our day: a speech fit for modern needs must possess expansive power. Thought does not remain for even one year stagnant. It bursts the bounds of the past and flows out into new fields of truth. Specifically, a language that is to borrow the whole wealth of the world in a generation must be capable of immense development.

These general considerations are applied by Dr. Woods to the Chinese language. We enter into the discussion of the actual powers and capacity of Chinese with great diffidence, fully aware of the fact that our knowledge is deficient for this task, and that this discussion belongs to those who are thoroughly familiar with the vocabulary, syntax, and future promise of Chinese. We repeat that our purpose is to call attention to the points that ought to be settled, rather than to attempt a settlement of any of them, though we are bold enough to venture an opinion here and there. Is the Chinese vocabulary too limited? If so, what promise have we of a rapid increase of this vocabulary? Dr. Woods thinks the language needs geographical names, names for new imported commodities, philosophic, religious, and scientific terms. These may be added to the present stock of words in three ways. 1. By forming new ideograms. We suppose these might be borrowed terms, transferred to Chinese written form. The pronunciation would have to be learned from the teacher's lips, or from an alphabetic index. Such a plan for enriching the vocabulary might be used to some extent, but it means an ever growing burden in the learning of the ideograms. 2. By further compounding of characters already in use. In this case accuracy will come only after years of education in the new meanings of the elements compounded, and the number of new words that can thus be formed seems necessarily limited. 3. By using the western technical terms unchanged, printing in the Roman alphabet. This would be displeasing to the eye, and to the literary sense, but in scientific and philosophic treatises it would be not unlike the use of Latin terms in our medical books, and would be highly satisfactory. The recognition and pronunciation of the printed terms could easily be learned, and they would be free of all false mental associations. We consider this an admirable suggestion, and should like to see it thoroughly discussed by competent scientific men who are masters of Chinese. Much may well be sacrificed to accuracy in science and philosophy.

THE MAILS.

Modern transport arrangements have reached such a high pitch of perfection that anything which occurs to clog the wheels of the machinery or interfere with the accuracy of the automata is regarded as little less than a public calamity. In Hongkong, which is peculiarly affected by the exactness of the mail arrivals, the loss of a single day is of vital importance to the mercantile community. As a rule, we are accustomed to set apart certain days of the week for the receipt of mails which will be answered on other dates arranged according to the schedule of arrivals and departures which every merchant knows almost by rote. But occasionally it happens that the unforeseen happens, with the result that the gear is disorganised, and a new set of calculations have to be framed to suit the exigencies of the situation. The delay in the delivery of the French mails—outward and inward—at the present time is a case in point. The French mail from Shanghai was expected to arrive on Sunday; it has not yet been sighted, or, at least, up to the time of writing she had not taken up her position at her anchorage. The French mail from the south should have made an appearance at daylight to-day. The Pacific Mail Company's steamer from Manila which should have been here on Sunday night had not taken up her anchorage, and a host of other boats, large and small, remained to be accounted for. All this was due simply and solely to the interference of fog. In western countries it might be considered a huge joke to suggest that fogs existed in the vicinity of Hongkong, whose cameo-cut Peak stands out, as a rule, a prominent landmark for miles. But this is the season between winter and summer, when the evaporation quickened by the returning sun meets the cold air thrown south by the ice-floes of the Yellow Sea, resulting in a fog which hangs like a blanket over the water, and is as sharply defined as a curtain drawn from the heavens to the sea. While it is very satisfactory to understand the meteorological conditions which occasion this state of things, it is no consolation to those who are anxiously awaiting the mails. For instance, Shanghai is only three or four days away, yet we have received nothing in the shape of letters or newspapers for seven days. Behind the screen which has been dropped just beyond the Lyemum Pass there are vessels bringing American, Japanese, Shanghai, and Manila mails; in the south, the blanket of mist shrouds steamers carrying the European, Indian, Singapore, and Saigon mails. In ordinary circumstances these vessels would have entered at intervals, allowing the man of business to grapple with each parcel of correspondence as it arrived. But whenever the fog lifts on this occasion the city offices will be inundated by mail matter, leading to endless confusion or, at any rate, to excessive labours in order that the arrears of work may be cleared away. Little wonder, then, if tempers disappear and irritation grows apace. It is difficult for people in these strenuous times to await events calmly, and from a health point of view this delay in the arrival of vessels may be considered a virtue. But how many can adopt the philosophical spirit and keep on waiting? We can only trust that before this is read the "missing" steamers will be safely anchored in the harbour and that those who are almost feverish will be calmed by the news of good fortune from abroad.

At noon to-day Messrs. Hughes and Hough, auctioneers, put up for sale at their auction rooms, No. 8, Des Vaux Road, by order of the mortgagees, the valuable leasehold property, registered in the Land Office as sub-section No. 2 of section A of Inland lot No. 25. This property comprises Nos. 1, 3, 5, and 7, Lower Lascar Row, Victoria, Hongkong. Messrs. Deacon, Looker and Deacon were the vendors' solicitors. The reserve price not having been reached the property was withdrawn, and the sale postponed sine die.

THE "DANGEROUS GOODS ANCHORAGE."

As the official organ of the Government, it is natural to presume that whatever appears in the Gazette is the reflex of experts, in departmental affairs, and has received the weightiest consideration before being published. It occasionally happens, however, that an obvious anomaly occurs in the Gazette, and the bewildered outsider is apt to wonder how the possibility of a mistake could arise in connection with the compilation of the volume. As a general rule it is safe to accept the new or amended "order" as an expression of the actual will and intention of the Government, and that no volte face will occur in spite of all the criticism levelled at the amending rule, no matter how absurd it may appear to the average citizen. On the other hand, cases have occurred where the Government, recognising that it has made a false step, has voluntarily tinkered anew at the original "order" and brought something resembling order out of undoubted chaos. In the Hongkong Government Gazette, dated 16th March, 1906, there is an item numbered 213, entitled "Rules and Regulations made by the Governor in Council on the 15th day of March, 1906, under the provision of section 6 of the Dangerous Goods Ordinance, 1873 (Ordinance No. 1 of 1873)"—and the rules are laid down regarding the signals to be used to indicate that dangerous goods are on board ship, and so forth. But what we are concerned with is the clause which deals with "dangerous goods anchorages," and the definition of where these anchorages shall be. With what is known as the "Eastern anchorage" we have no fault to find for the present; we are solely concerned with the "Western anchorage," which it will be found, when read together with the Merchant Shipping Consolidation Amendment Ordinance, raises a very important and serious question, one which affects the entire community, and especially the shipping companies whose steamers may be engaged in the passenger trade, and therefore liable to quarantine. Our contention is that the Government has woefully muddled the areas defined as "dangerous goods anchorages" and "quarantine anchorage" with the result that vessels carrying dangerous goods and passenger vessels in quarantine will be occupying one and the same anchorage, which is not merely absurd but almost criminally wrong. The southern boundary of the dangerous goods anchorage is "south of Stonecutter's Island." The southern boundary of the quarantine anchorage is: "That part of a line having the Naval coal sheds at Kowloon bearing E. by S. commencing where it meets the eastern boundary, and terminating where it meets the western boundary." The western boundary for dangerous goods is—"West of a line from which the White Rock on Stonecutter's Island bears north." For quarantined vessels it is: "A line drawn from the western side of Green Island to the western side of Green Island." The northern boundary for vessels carrying dangerous goods is defined: "North of a line having the sheers at the Naval Yard at Kowloon bearing east;" and for vessels in quarantine, "the five fathom line of soundings." Finally the vessels in quarantine have an eastern boundary: "A north and south line drawn from a white mark on south side of Stonecutter's Island until it reaches the southern boundary." To put it in a nutshell, the "dangerous goods anchorage" extends from the extreme west of Green Island and the extreme west of Stonecutter's Island to the White Rock. The "quarantine anchorage" extends from the western sides of Green Island and Stonecutter's Island to the white mark on Stonecutter's Island. It will thus be seen that the "dangerous goods anchorage" also comprehends the "quarantine anchorage." The curious part of the puzzle is that, in dealing with the quarantining of vessels, the Ordinance speaks of the white mark, a well-known point; but in the "dangerous goods" rules no mention whatsoever is made of the white mark. But even as it is, the possibility of vessels laden with dangerous goods rubbing against vessels carrying passengers in quarantine is not pleasant to contemplate. It may happen that half a dozen vessels carrying dangerous goods arrive at Hongkong during a period when quarantine is being sternly imposed that half a dozen vessels are waiting pratique. The very fact that certain vessels are relegated to the dangerous goods anchorage is proof positive that they are a danger to themselves and to everything within a considerable radius. It is needless to dwell upon the point, because it must be apparent to all that a vessel with a cargo of gunpowder and another with some scores of passengers, should not be liable under the law to lie alongside each other. In whatever way they are looked at the rules and regulations clash, and we submit that we have shown ample grounds for a reconsideration of the "rules and regulations" made under the Dangerous Goods Ordinance.

The following is the return of visitors to the City Hall Library and Museum for the week ending 18th March:—Library—Non-Chinese, 271; Chinese, 131; total, 402. Museum—Non-Chinese, 118; Chinese, 3,899; total, 4,017.

A SHIPPING DEAL.

For printing a number of slips which purported to be passenger tickets issued by the Norddeutscher Lloyd for the voyage from Hongkong to Bangkok, and passing them off on a guileless simpleton, a prisoner was sentenced at the Criminal Sessions yesterday to five years' hard labour. We have no concern with the parties or the sentence—which was richly deserved—but one is inclined to wonder how anyone, even the most unsophisticated of coolies, could be induced to hand over his hard-earned money on such a specious statement as that made by the prisoner in the case in question to complainant. Some people never seem to gain sense either from their own experience or from the experience of others. They calmly walk into the trap laid for them by the first sharper they meet, and only awaken to a realisation of their foolishness when they have been turned inside out for the benefit of the exploiter. There used to be a belief that when a knave and a fool came together the latter won, not through his superior adroitness in circumventing the knave, but because the knave over-reached himself. Unfortunately, that idea is an exploded myth to the man of the world, for daily we witness the rogue imposing on the simpleton to his heart's content. It is a fine question, however, whether the fool is not as bad as the knave. Without a victim the knave would turn himself to other pursuits. In the case before the Sessions yesterday the coolie who was snared seemed to be in the wholesale business as a purchaser of passenger tickets. He wanted 18 at once and paid $11 each for them—the seller graciously allowing a discount of $2 per ticket, no doubt on the principle that the more you buy the less you pay. The fraud was discovered, of course, although it was stated that the forgeries were extremely clever. It is satisfactory to notice that the Chief Justice sentenced the prisoner to a term of incarceration which should deter others of the accused's kind from emulating his example. The crime of forgery is usually associated with precocious education, but fortunately it is comparatively seldom that the Courts of the Colony have a serious case before them under this head. If forgers turned their attention to the manufacture of passenger tickets none could tell what the end would be. Hongkong being a port of trans-shipment for an immense number of coolies from the north and south, the skilled counterfeiter would find himself temporarily in clover if he exercised his nefarious calling with anything like moderation and caution. As a rule the tickets of coolies and other passengers are collected en route, and even if the whole passenger list consisted of coolies bound for the Straits a steamship could not, without great expense being incurred, return when it was found that the coolies were travelling on forged tickets. The salutary lesson read by the Chief Justice should, however, effectually cast a blight on the profession of forgery, even if all the fools in the world were prepared to be "rooked" by unsympathetic sharps.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

At the time of going to press the P.M.s. China, and Loongsang were sighted.

The China and Manila steamer Zafra arrived this afternoon, and reports heavy fog outside.

"I did not know that Ah King was a bad man," remarked a complainant in a rice-case at the Police Court this morning. "If I did I would not have trusted him. Only a few days ago I heard he was a robber in the interior." Mr. Hazeland, "Was he? He's in business here." Remanded.

REFERENCE was made in an editorial in our columns yesterday to the need for consideration by the members of the Sanitary Board of the precautions adopted against the spread of smallpox and plague. Five deaths were recorded between yesterday and to-day. Comment is needless.

TONG YUNG made a very fruitless attempt on Saturday afternoon last to transform a few sheets of zinc, the property of Messrs. Pughard, Lowther and Co., into silver. The transformation did not materialise, and Tong was arrested. Mr. Hazeland, at the Police Court this morning, sentenced him to three weeks' hard labour and six hours' stocks.

THE periodical examination of candidates, under the compulsory examination Ordinance, for pilots' certificates for service locally, was held at the Harbour Master's office this morning. The following composed the Examining Board: Mr. Edward Jones, Assistant Harbour Master, Captain T. A. Hall, and Captain E. Winthrop. Six candidates presented themselves for examination, of whom the following four passed the tests successfully: Ah Tai, Leung Foo, Foe Shing and Shuk Tai.

ALLEN Stuart, second officer on board the Galien, prosecuted a coolie at the Police Court this morning, before Mr. C. A. D. Melbourne, for stealing a money-box containing $45 from his cabin on Monday afternoon. Complainant said that on Monday morning he placed the money in the box, and in the afternoon when he went to open the box he found that the box and money had both disappeared. When the matter was reported to the Station, and Detective Teit boarded the Galien, the defendant was searched, and a bunch of keys was found in his possession. The first key that was tried opened the box. Defendant was sentenced to one month's hard labour.

GERMAN ADMIRAL IN CANTON.

HIS EXCELLENCY VISITS THE VICEROY.

[From Our Correspondent.]

Canton, 19th March. Admiral Breusing arrived here on the Tiger on the 16th inst. and, on the following day, he and his staff, accompanied by the German Consul, paid an official visit to the Viceroy, who, fortunately, was not indisposed as he has so often been in the past when distinguished foreigners are desirous of calling on him.

On Saturday night the excellent Band of the Furst Bismark gave a splendid exhibition of their talent before a large and appreciative audience at the Canton Club theatre and yesterday they treated the community by playing in the garden in the afternoon, quite enlivening the general monotony of Sunday afternoons.

THE REMOVED "PROMOTION" OF THE VICEROY.

There is no confirmation here of the reported transfer of the Viceroy to Nanking, and in spite of the strong feeling existing against the Viceroy, it is now believed in well informed circles that the Viceroy will continue in office until such time as he is able to withdraw without "losing face," which will mean that he will remain here for at least six months.

NAVAL SEARCHLIGHT DISPLAY.

EXHIBITION IN HONGKONG HARBOUR.

The Praya was crowded last night with an interested throng of all classes watching the play of the searchlights from the men-of-war in the harbour on the buildings along the waterfront and the hills behind. The majority of people in Hongkong have frequent opportunities of witnessing a display of search-light practice, but seldom have they seen the effect afforded by the flashing of a dozen lights being worked at the same time. The sky was overcast and the lights when thrown upwards were lost in the heavy clouds, but the harbour was clear of mist and many picturesque views of the shipping in the harbour were silhouetted by the glaring illumination. The sampan people were delighted when the full light of the reflector was cast upon them, dazzling their eyes and leaving them blinking in temporary blindness. Many junks were sailing in the harbour, with the result that the instantaneous photographs obtained by the manoeuvring of the search-lights were exceptionally fine. There did not seem to be any attempt made by the men-of-war to signal by search-light. It was simply an exhibition of the dexterity of the operators in working the apparatus. From the Ferry, Hongkong by search-light was an unusually interesting scene. The lights illumined the houses on the hill-side, but failed to pierce the clouds which enveloped the Peak. The exhibition lasted for about an hour, and attracted the undivided attention of most of the dwellers on the Praya. It is believed that Vice-Admiral Sir Arthur W. Moore, the new Commander-in-Chief of the China Fleet, was on a round of inspection, with the view of finding out the capabilities of the units of his squadron in search-light operations. Whatever the result may be from a naval and technical point of view, the display was certainly spectacular. It may be noted as an interesting fact that foreign vessels of war are not permitted to indulge in search-light practice within the waters of the Colony.

CHANGE OF SOLICITORS.

In Summary Jurisdiction this morning, His Honour Mr. Justice Wise, Puisne Judge, presiding, the case of Leung Kam Kwong versus Kwong Hi Lau was called on for settlement of issues.

Mr. F. X. d'Almada e Castro appeared for the plaintiffs, Mr. R. Gardiner, of Mr. O. D. Thomson's office appearing for the defendants in place of Mr. R. F. C. Master, of Messrs. Johnson, Stokes and Master, who had withdrawn from the case.

The point at issue was as to whether certain persons were or were not partners at a certain time in the Hong Hoi Long Heng Kee.

Mr. Gardiner said he understood that this case was set for hearing to-day, but he must ask for an adjournment.

Mr. d'Almada e Castro: I strongly object to an adjournment of any sort.

His Honour: Yes, yes; I know of course, you must say that (laughter). But I'll hear what Mr. Gardiner has to say.

Mr. Gardiner explained that the reason he was obliged to ask for an adjournment was that he had only been instructed in the case yesterday evening and had had, consequently, no time to go into the case, and was thus entirely unprepared to go on.

Mr. d'Almada e Castro said it was a very simple case—merely to prove or disprove certain allegations.

His Honour said he thought it reasonable, under the circumstances, to ask for an adjournment, and he would grant same till Friday, presuming the costs were all right.

Mr. d'Almada e Castro intimated that he was not going to press for the costs of the day, and had explained that to his friend.

The case was adjourned to go into Friday's summary list.

THE BOYCOTT IN HONGKONG.

ALLEGED TAMPERING WITH TRADE MARKS. Three men and two women were placed before Mr. F. A. Hazeland at the Police Court this morning, at the instance of Inspector Collett, on a charge of applying a false trade description to a quantity of flour, on the 19th inst.

Mr. A. C. Holborow, of Messrs. Deacon, Looker and Deacon, appeared for the defendants.

It was alleged that on the 19th instant the defendants, on behalf of a Chinese firm of flour merchants, were transferring a quantity of "Red Seal" flour into bags bearing the "White Lily" brand. This was done, it is alleged, because the "Red Seal" brand of flour bore the mark "U.S.A." while that of the "White Lily" did not. Therefore they would evade the boycotters if they substituted the marks.

The case was remanded until Wednesday next. The three men were released in the sum of $100 each. The women $25 apiece.

FOG-BOUND HONGKONG.

SURROUNDED BY DENSE FOG.

MAIL STEAMERS ANXIOUSLY AWAITED.

Since Saturday evening, Hongkong has been the one bright spot in an ocean of mist. In the north, dense banks of fog have acted as a blanket, with the result that vessels from Shanghai have been feeling their way to this Colony like people in black darkness. In the south, the fog was travelling much more slowly, and the drifting wreaths were scarcely so thick, but they still proved a danger and a menace to shipping. Amid all this impenetrable curtain which surrounded the Colony, Hongkong experienced comparatively good weather. The sun even appeared at intervals, and there was never at any time anything like a sheet of mist along the lower levels, although the Peak was continually lost in the swift rolling clouds driving up from the north. On Sunday night the mist spread over the harbour, but last night there was not a suspicion of fog in the air, as was evidenced by the search light drill which was carried out by the men-of-war at the Admiralty anchorage.

Outside the harbour, and just beyond the Lyemum Pass, the fog descended like a blank wall. It was a clear cut partition and a vessel would be half inside the fog and half outside at the same time. Of course, this meant the dislocation of shipping between Hongkong and the north and vice versa. Vessels despaired of finding their way to Hongkong by the lead alone, and they anchored at the most convenient place. Nobody can tell how many vessels are ensnared by the dank, luminous blanket which fell like a pall over the waters. There may be fifty; there may be only a dozen. Until this afternoon Hongkong had been without a visit from any of the steamers of the great mail lines for days. A few of the smaller craft which were able to dodge here and there reported that they heard the whistles of the French and Pacific mail steamers, the bells and trumpets of others, and a medley of sounds which might proceed from an ethereal philharmonic society.

The smaller vessels which trade between Hongkong and the ports on the coast, return day-trip boats, continued their operations as usual. Captain Weatherhead, of the Albatross, stated that after leaving Hongkong he had to feel his way inch by inch. Nothing could be seen. He picked his way by the echo of his steam whistle from the rocks. As shipping men will know, there is a pass leading to the north beside the Lyemum Pass—it cuts off several miles and is favoured. It is only fifty yards wide with beelling crags on either side, and a shoaling bottom. Captain Weatherhead took the Albatross through this pass early yesterday morning and hugging one side of the pass could not discern the other. Points which in ordinary times are looked for had either disappeared or were distorted out of all recognition by the diaphanous quality of the fog.

The greatest grievance of the mercantile community is the detention of the mails. Work will be greatly hindered pending the arrival of the steamers from East and West, for Hongkong is one of the few places in the world where Kipling's lines that "East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet" do not apply, for both Europe and America deposit their goods and mails at Hongkong. There is a prospect now, however, that the weather is clearing and that vessels at anchor outside will be able to make port before the fog settles again.

SEVEN ATTEMPTS TO REACH HONGKONG.

The German steamer Nicomedia, 4,380 tons, Capt. P. Wagemann, which arrived in port at six o'clock last evening from Portland, Ore., with a cargo of flour and lumber, appeared to have experienced some trouble with the fog, which has been causing such a delay to ships, from both northern and southern ports. The chief officer of the Nicomedia, speaking to a representative of this paper to-day, said that the vessel left Portland, Ore., on February 11th, bound for the Far East. Very fine weather prevailed as far as Moji, which was left on March 15th. The first sign of the fog occurred at half-past twelve o'clock on Sunday morning last, but it was very slight. Two hours later the fog became so thick that the Nicomedia had to slow down her engine and subsequently to anchor. This occurred about twenty miles from Waglan Island. From Sunday morning to Monday afternoon seven attempts were made to push the ship to her destination, and each time the anchor had to be cast overboard. Late yesterday afternoon the Nicomedia raised her anchor for the last time and steamed for this port. The fog was left behind at Lyemum Pass. On the way an American man-of-war and the s.s. China, which, it is stated, was waiting for a pilot, were sighted, while the fog-horns and bells of several ships lying in the vicinity, were heard.

SIGHTED THE FRENCH FLEET.

The P. & O. s.s. Poona, 4,877 tons, Capt. C. R. Longden, arrived in the harbour and steamed alongside her wharf at Kowloon at six o'clock last evening. The chief officer of the vessel reports that he left Singapore on March 14th, for Hongkong. After a thick fog fell in and lasted up to her arrival in port. From Singapore they experienced moderate N.E. wind, moderate sea and fine weather. They passed the French fleet consisting of two cruisers, the Montcalm and Guydon, and two destroyers, ten miles from Gap Rock steaming a North-westerly course.

DEFIED THE FOG.

The s.s. Benlawers, 2,920 tons, commanded by Capt. B. Clark, arrived alongside the Kowloon Wharf, from Singapore, at six o'clock yesterday evening. They left Singapore on the 12th instant. On Saturday a slight fog commenced to settle, and it gradually grew thicker. They were then about 50 miles from Gap Rock. The chief officer reports that the French fleet consisting of two cruisers and six torpedo-boats were seen to be manoeuvring and target shooting, thirty-five miles from Gap Rock.

THIRTY-SIX HOURS IN THE FOG.

The French mail steamer Oceanien from the North arrived in port this afternoon. From a passenger on the boat we learn that owing to fog, which was very heavy outside, the vessel waited for nearly thirty-six hours. It was only at 2.30 p.m. to-day that she steamed for Hongkong. Quite a few passengers left by the pilot's boat earlier in the day and arrived in Hongkong before the mail.

HONGKONG AQUATICS.

ANOTHER FINE DISPLAY OF WATERY MARVELS.

Now that Hongkong has entered the dog-days, the principal form of entertainment in the Colony seems to be aquatic entertainments, and those who have had the pleasure of witnessing what the items under the charge of the Public Works Department can perform in the way of simple, innocent and homely amusement must award it the palm. As an originator of aquatic sports the P.W.D. can beat all comers, with one hand behind its remarkable back. The other morning, and well into the forenoon, the Department gave an unheated show in statue square, which was greatly admired, although it became rather monotonous, being kept up for some hours which is, apt to pall. Accordingly, in strict justice to the numerous rate-payers on the water-front it was only fair they should realise that they were getting their money's worth, to put it crudely-joking apart, those who were leaving their offices on the front at five to ten to-day had a first-hand exhibition of the power of the water in the mains. Opposite the P. & O. offices, a pipe burst, about a quarter to one o'clock, and a stream of water arose over-topping the tramway cable and supplying a rich and luxurious draught to a dry and thirsty thoroughfare. It might almost have been a libation poured out in honour of one of the members of the Sanitary Board, Mr. E. A. Hewett. It was a noble volume of water which gushed forth from the broken main, and while it dislocated traffic, it attracted a big crowd from far and wide to gaze upon the latest luxury of life. Some very amusing yet melancholy comments were made upon the display. "What is it?" said one little urchin, hanging on to his mother's hand. "It's water, darling." "Water?" said the boy. "What's water?" "Oh, water's just water, you know." After a moment's consideration—"Is that the thing that my grandmother used to speak about?" He was hurried away and promised a whole jugful, if he promised to be good. It is sad to think that except from sundry and casual street exhibitions the rising generation is hardly likely to learn what water is except from text-books on chemistry. Meanwhile coolies were collecting from far and near with buckets, kerosene tins, mugs, old slippers, and what not. They gathered round the mighty geyser, made a dash and deposited their receptacle. When it had been filled to the brim, they made another dash and came forth with a pannikin of water which they guarded as jealously as a dog a bone, and ran home with it. One enterprising individual brought forth a 24-gallon barrel which he had hired from the Mutual Stores. He attempted to set it in the centre of the waterfall, but the "unionists" decided that this was the nucleus of a "trust" and they heaved him and his barrel on to the sidewalk. He had the consolation that he had little in his barrel he had plenty on his clothes. The stream of water still mounted merrily, and the crowd continued to grow. It was a sight well worth seeing and this much may be admitted at once that fifteen minutes is the best hour for displays of this character. Somebody had gone to the Hongkong Hotel, they said, to shut off the water, and amid cries of "Shame!" another individual who claimed to be a water authority said he was bound for the same haven. Still the water held on at the rate of so many hundred gallons a minute. One precocious youngster offered to sell his share at one cash a lick, and found buyers. It was rumoured that they were trying to cut the water off from Pedder Street, "Lat yame" try, as they said in Scotland some scores of years ago, and they did try and succeeded. The geyser gave a cough, a gurgle and all was over, to be peeped at for a final time. The crowd dispersed, a friendly Sikh policeman, who had been staring wide-eyed at this one of the marvels of the East, giving the hint that duty must be done. And they say that Hongkong cannot beat Shanghai for amusements!

HONGKONG WATER SUPPLY.

"And now is the season of our discontent," for once again we are within measurable distance of a water-famine. But of course there are degrees of famine, and those of us who are accustomed to unlimited quantities of that very desirable and necessary element, for abatement and culinary purposes, will certainly look upon the restriction to a few quarts per diem per cap. as a degree of famine, and the notice from the Water Authorities has struck fear into their hearts. For several months past we have enjoyed an unlimited supply of water all over the city, and the sudden restriction of the supply, from all day long as heretofore, to one hour per day means more to the householders of this Colony than appears at first sight, and endless must be the shifts entailed upon the public to secure anything like even a semi-adequate supply. All householders know how very little attention Chinese domestic servants pay to that virtue which, it is said, ranks next to godliness—cleanliness—and that fact alone makes one pause in dismay at the possible—if unseen—results of a limited water supply. But these intermittent supplies cannot but direct the attention of the observant to the continual and unrestrained waste that everywhere goes on when there is a copious supply; nobody then, a parent taking any heed of the needs of the morrow. Twice, within the past two or three weeks, attention has been called in these columns to flagrant cases of wilful waste of water in the City. The old adage hath it that wilful waste makes woeful want, and it is just that woeful want that we may soon find confronting us, when we want our matutinal tub, or the eye-opening cup of coffee. Of course we shall all congregate in nooks, and corners and boudoirs, and there, in varying shades of masculine and feminine wrath, roundly abuse the water authorities, the clerk of the weather, the Public Works Dept., who jointly and severally are responsible for these irksome, and even more than irksome, restrictions in the supply of a commodity without an unlimited supply of which life in these parts would be intolerable.

A representative of the Hongkong Telegraph to-day interviewed the Director of Public Works, the Hon. Mr. Chatham on the subject. Mr. Chatham said that the contents of the reservoirs at present were 20,000,000 gallons of water, and with the large population of this Colony, and the dry season so closely upon us, it has been deemed necessary to provide for all contingencies of possible rainless weather between now and the middle of May, when the rainy season might again be looked for, and so it was necessary to husband the water as far as practicable. It was intended that the supply should be controlled by the rider main system, but as only a very limited area of the city has been equipped with this appliance, it has not been possible to secure that result, and this has caused a restriction during the present dry season. The work on the rider main system is actively in progress, and it is confidently anticipated that it will be completed, before another dry season commences, practically covering the entire City. The entire supply of water available is less than half that of last year, when it was 175,000,000 gallons in the reservoirs against 85,000,000 this year, the great difference being due to the deficiency in the rain fall as compared with that of the previous year. In August, 1905, there was a rainfall registering 12.12 inches as compared with 27.64 in the same month of 1904, while in September, 1905, the register showed 3.26 inches, as against 9.77 for the corresponding period of the previous year. These facts notwithstanding, concluded Mr. Chatham, the initiation of the intermittent supply of water to the City and suburbs was kept off as long as was considered prudent, and "the public might consider themselves fortunate that it was not started at an earlier date." And there we reach the crux of the whole matter. Why was not the supply reduced before to a reasonable number of hours per day, with due warning to the householders that it was but a preliminary step to further reductions in the duration of the hours of the water supply, and thus prepare them gently for what was coming in the near future? It is a well-known fact, among those who study the reports, that in the beginning of last dry season when the duration of the water supply was reduced to four hours a day, three quarters of the usual day's supply was drawn off. In other words the total average withdrawal from the reservoirs daily, during the continuance of a constant supply, was 4,000,000 gallons, while in the "open" in four hours the amount withdrawn was over 3,000,000. Thus it will be easily seen that the savings, for all the "closed" hours was on but a very small scale of percentage. As it is now householders are driven to pressing every conceivable and unconceivable sort of receptacle into the service to gather up the last available drop of the liquid, which takes on a distinct value at such periods, during the one short hour when their taps will respond to the call made upon them. Under these circumstances it will naturally be most interesting, and perhaps edifying, to know just how much the savings amount to under the circumstances, for with the bug-bear of the possibility of the cook, or other domestic servant coming to them with the legend "No more water got him," every householder, in a sort of panic, will, even if unintentionally, draw far more than is necessary for the householders' requirements. Last year during the restricted hour the drawing averaged 70 gallons per head, per day, an amount quite unnecessary for each individual's requirements at this time of the year. Under the present restriction what will the drawing, per capita, be? The report should be watched for with interest, as no doubt it will.

SANITARY BOARD.

FORTNIGHTLY MEETING.

The usual fortnightly meeting of the Sanitary Board was held in the Board room this afternoon, when the following business was transacted.

THE PLAGUE SEASON.

The Medical Officer of Health, in a minute, stated that it would be advisable to again advertise asking people to report whenever they find their houses rat-ridden. Some do so now, but a reminder would be advisable as the plague season is now commencing.

PAINT OR LIMEWASH?

The manager of the Steam Laundry Company submitted a letter, in reply to a communication from the secretary of the Board, instructing that company to whitewash certain wood and iron work on the company's Kowloon premises, in which the manager said that the walls of their said premises were entirely of glass and iron, the only wood work being the framing to the glass and certain partitions in the office. The Board surely did not intend to make them whitewash this like cattle-pens, and therefore he asked that somebody be deputed to visit the premises, and point out which parts of the wood-work were required to be whitewashed or whether paint could not be used as a substitute. The offices were not the laundry itself, and the bye-laws were intended for Chinese washmen, who ate and slept among the clothes. No one lived in the Steam Laundry, and it seemed absurd to apply the same regulations to their premises.

Mr. Hewett minutes: The application should be granted. I see that the secretary, under date of February 22nd states, "he is directed by the Board to write that the wood and iron work must be whitewashed." Is this correct? I have no recollection of the question being before the Board.

Dr. W. W. Pearce, Medical Officer of Health, minutes: I do not think we can say the regulations and bye-laws apply only to Chinese washmen and not to Europeans. But of course there is the power of the Board to exempt where such a course is reasonable. The Board has already held that painted wood work if properly cleaned need not be lime-washed. Would the Assistant Medical Officer of Health kindly see what he can do in the matter? I suggest that the Board allow the Laundry Company to paint the woodwork instead of lime-washing it.

Dr. Macfarlane minutes: I have seen the premises. The attached letter was sent at my request, but does not embody exactly what I asked for, that was, that the wood could be either painted or lime-washed. This letter was asked for under the impression that the same treatment should be given to an English laundry as to a Chinese laundry, or Chinese theatre, or similar places. Unless this laundry comes under some other heading I see no reason for not asking for painting or lime-washing of the main wood work. This has been strictly enforced in the Chinese theatres and other such licensed premises, laundries, etc., lately, and it would not seem fair to have two standards—one for Chinese and one for English.

TANKS IN YARDS.

Mr. Brotherton Harker applied for a modification of the requirements of the Public Health and Buildings Ordinance with respect to the maintenance of a water tank in the backyard of Nos. 83 and 84, Connaught Road Central.

Mr. E. A. Hewett minutes: We should be informed of the reason for the tank to be erected before considering the application.

Mr. Lau Chiu Pak minutes: The tank can be covered up. If there is no other reason than that mentioned in the minute of the Medical Officer of Health I think this application should be granted.

The Hon. the Registrar-General minutes: This is a very large tank. This is the first application of the kind I remember seeing. Is there some special reason for it?

The Hon. the Director of Public Works minutes: Such tanks are objectionable, and unless there are good reasons for requiring them they should not be allowed.

The Medical Officer of Health minutes: The proposed tank will not take up much room, but I do not think it advisable to grant the application. Water tanks in yards are always liable to contamination from dirty water splashed out of windows.

THE RHENISH MISSION.

On behalf of the Rhinish Mission, Mr. Brotherton Harker submitted an application for a modification of the Public Health and Buildings Ordinance with regard to building on Inland Lot 609, section A, for exemption from providing open space in the rear of those building in Bonham Road, on the ground floor, as it was intended to use the ground floor as a meeting hall entirely, and only the upper storey for domestic and scholastic purposes.

The Medical Officer of Health minutes: Owing to the meeting of three roads just in this neighbourhood there is a good amount of open space there. On condition that the ground floor of the building is not to be used for domestic purposes I think no harm would result from granting the modification asked for.

The Hon. the Registrar-General minutes: Is the road at the back of the premises a private one? If so, there is nothing to prevent more buildings in the rear.

LIMEWASHING.

During the fortnight ending 13th inst. 1,673 houses were cleaned and lime-washed under the superintendence of the Sanitary officials.

THE WEATHER.

The following report is from Mr. F. G. Figg, First Assistant of the Hongkong Observatory:—On the 20th at 12.15 p. The barometer has fallen over NE. Japan, and the E. coast of China; and risen elsewhere.

Pressure is highest over the Pacific to the N. of Japan and over the E. coast of China. Gradients continue slight in the South and light or moderate SE. and S. winds may be expected in the Formosa Channel and the N. part of the China Sea, accompanied by fog along the coast.

Forecast.—S. winds, light or moderate; foggy, showery.

WHERE IS THE HOSPITAL?

TRICKS PLAYED ON FOREIGN FIRMS.

The old trick of going round to different foreign firms with a subscription book and collecting money for a hospital that is non-existent has again come to light, but not before a number of firms in Hongkong have been defrauded. It was not so very long ago that the local police captured a Chinaman and had him convicted of obtaining money by false pretences. The conviction does not appear to have been a warning to others; for, according to a story which is going the rounds, the subscription book appeared to be "good business," and in this particular case the Chinaman was getting $50 a month, simply by stating that he represented some institution in the city. This morning a long-coated Chinaman was ushered into the detective office, and after a preliminary examination is gone through he will take his trial in the usual course for defrauding certain firms. The accused, it is alleged, obtained $169 from various firms, simply by producing a book which was marked "Yuen Ngo Hospital." The police inspected the so-called hospital and found it in 44 Battery Street. There were only two Chinese beds in the house, which were occupied by two women, while the man under arrest was content with the kitchen. Among others he obtained subscriptions from Mr. H. W. Slade, on 6th February and 5th March, of $6 and $3 respectively; Messrs. Palmer and Turner $5; Messrs. Hughes and Hough $5. He was placed before Mr. F. A. Hazland, this forenoon, on a charge of obtaining $169 under false pretences. Chief Detective Inspector Hanson prosecuted and the case was remanded.

SOLDIERS' CLUB CHALLENGE SHIELD.

ROYAL ARTILLERY DEFEATED.

Yesterday afternoon, on the Hongkong Football ground, kindly lent for the occasion, the semi-final match for the above shield, was placed between the West Kents and the R.G.A. The Artillery kicked off with a slight wind in their favour and the opening exchanges between both teams were very interesting. Up to a few minutes before half-time both sides were pressing hard, but the Kents had most of the attack on their opponent's citadel and they opened the score. With a goal against them, their Artillery failed to pass the Kents' stronghold, and their passage was baulked on many occasions. The Kents, who played a pretty game, sprang down the line and secured the second goal. The decision of the referee appeared to be very unpopular, for as the crowd yelled off-side Rosedair—the R. G. A. goalkeeper—refused to clear and the ball passed him. The referee, however, called it a goal. The so-called unpopular decision did not assist the Artillery team and a game of hard kicking commenced with the result that the Kents got in another shot. Final: West Kents 3; R. G. A. nil.

HOCKEY.

On the Hockey Club ground yesterday afternoon the gun-room officer of H.M.S. Andromeda played H.M.S. King Alfred. The new arrivals played a better game and defeated the Andromeda men by two goals to one.
